

Housing Programs Produce Jobs!

In 2009-10, the NYS network of Rural and Neighborhood Preservation Programs helped to keep thousands of construction workers working.

These community-based corporations hired local construction contractors to:

- Renovate 15,462 homes across New York State
- Construct 4,896 new housing units around the State
- Keeping thousands of construction workers working!

Housing Programs have an economic impact on local communities, not only by creating construction jobs, but by creating business for building suppliers and a myriad of other housing related industries and professions.

Support your local preservation program and its housing programs! Make sure New York State continues to fund these important organizations that bring construction jobs to your community. Keep New Yorkers working!

Housing Programs Produce Jobs!

In 2009-10, the NYS network of Rural and Neighborhood Preservation Programs helped to keep thousands of construction workers working.

These community-based corporations hired local construction contractors to:

- Renovate 15,462 homes across New York State
- Construct 4,896 new housing units around the State
- Keeping thousands of construction workers working!

Housing Programs have an economic impact on local communities, not only by creating construction jobs, but by creating business for building suppliers and a myriad of other housing related industries and professions.

Support your local preservation program and its housing programs! Make sure New York State continues to fund these important organizations that bring construction jobs to your community. Keep New Yorkers working!